With over 20 years of experience, I specialize in high-end collateral systems and corporate identity. My background has been at several of Denver's best agencies and with clients that are national as well as local. Whether I am marketing to businesses or consumers, the approach is the same: strategic research, solid marketing plans and design that support these initiatives.

I began my company, 3 Story Design, in order to offer the same services that I would have provided in an agency setting in a more cost-effective way. By aligning myself with other strategic partners, clients will receive the same best of breed services an agency would provide, but at a more reasonable rate.

My work ranges in the categories of travel, healthcare, real estate, financial and hi-tech to name a few, but with a specialty in nonprofit and cause marketing.
