Concepting and creating compelling marketing campaigns is what I love and crave to do. I've been fortunate enough to be apart of some extraordinary projects, as well as, work with some seriously talented individuals. Working with the production and talent from a show to achieve a desired campaign look/strategy is a fulfilling process emotionally, artistically and often physically! I always enjoy the relationships that are often developed with cast and crew, as well as the photographer and his team and always look forward to the next project.
