

Bryan

HEAD OF CREATIVE MARKETING
NU MEXICO

Vancouver, BC, Canada

This is version five.

bryan@fullfactor.com

604-555-5555 office

Experience

Owner

Vancouver, BC

- Present

Full Factor Technologies!

Managed a web development consultancy providing:

- full-cycle support of the application design
- development, implementation deployment, and management processes
- full-cycle support of the application design development, implementation deployment, and management processes and more and more.

For more information: google.com

XXXX

New York, NY
May 2008 - Present

XXXX

- responsible for all knits within the brand
- in charge of product design process from market research, concept development, color palettes,

patterns, sketch, design packs, spec, fit, and approvals

- translates seasonal concept into fully articulated line for knit classification
- proactively seeks out new opportunities to grow the business
- works with brand merchandising to ensure key programs are protected and relevant to market
- collaborates with cross functional team to strategize and creatively solve problems throughout the product development process
- leads the aesthetic of all fits and styling details. collaborates with technical design to establish blocks. actively participate in fit sessions
- maintains strong working relationships with cross functional team members (merchandising, production and cad & graphics) through communication and problem solving.
- manages freelance designers throughout stages of product development
- supports and participates in all relevant company wide initiatives as they arise

-
- responsible for all knits within the brand
 - in charge of product design process from market research, concept development, color palettes,

patterns, sketch, design packs, spec, fit, and approvals

- translates seasonal concept into fully articulated line for knit classification
- proactively seeks out new opportunities to grow the business
- works with brand merchandising to ensure key programs are protected and relevant to market
- collaborates with cross functional team to strategize and creatively solve problems throughout the product development process
- leads the aesthetic of all fits and styling details. collaborates with technical design to establish blocks. actively participate in fit sessions
- maintains strong working relationships with cross functional team members (merchandising, production and cad & graphics) through communication and problem solving.
- manages freelance designers throughout stages of product development
- supports and participates in all relevant company wide initiatives as they arise

Links

One

Two